Things You Should Know

Purpose: To inform you that there is certain information you must provide when applying for assisted housing. There are penalties that apply if you knowingly omit information or give false information.

Penalties For Committing Fraud: The United States Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) places a high priority on preventing fraud. If your application or recertification forms contains false or incomplete information, you may be:

- Terminated from your lease apartment;
- Required to repay all overpaid rental assistance you received;
- Fined up to $10,000;
- Imprisoned for up to 5 years, and/or;
- Prohibited from receiving future assistance;

Your State and Local Governments may have other laws and penalties as well.

Asking Questions: When you meet with staff who is to fill out your application, you should know what is expected of you. If you do not understand something, ask for clarification. That staff can answer your question or find out what the answer is.

Things You Should Know

Completing The Application: When you answer application questions, you must include the following information:

Income: All sources of money you or any member of your household receive (wages, welfare payments, alimony, social security, pension, etc.):
